

Executive Biography

Ted Clark

Senior Vice President and General Manager, Notebook Global Business Unit, Personal Systems Group

Hewlett-Packard Company

Ted Clark is senior vice president and general manager of the Notebook Global Business Unit in the Personal Systems Group at HP. He is responsible for the multi-billion dollar global profit and loss for both consumer and commercial notebook businesses worldwide. Clark's responsibilities also include notebook product strategy and roadmap, all notebook product development, complete lifecycle management, global supply chain and total customer experience.

Clark has held a wide variety of positions in his 17 years at HP, including leading the handheld and tablet businesses, product marketing, business strategy and product development. In total, he has more than 25 years experience in mobile computing with HP, Compaq and GRiD Systems. In the mobile sector since the early days, he has participated in the "birth" of the laptop computer, the tablet PC and the iPAQ handheld.

Clark received his Bachelor of Science in electrical engineering from Rice University and his Master of Business Administration from the Kellogg Graduate School of Management at Northwestern University.

Hewlett-Packard Company
3000 Hanover Street
Palo Alto, CA 94304
www.hp.com