Fact Sheet

HP Flow CM Enterprise

HP Flow CM Enterprise is a comprehensive set of intelligent enterprise content management (ECM) solutions built by Autonomy, an HP company, designed to help enterprises access, organize and leverage the information in documents, audio, video, email, web pages and more.

The five ECM solutions — used individually, as a suite or in combination — can be combined with HP LaserJet Enterprise flow multifunction printers (MFPs) to make the most of an organization's information. The printers offer document processing and sharing, as well as fast and reliable scanning, which enables organizations with easy, accurate data entry.
HP Flow CM Enterprise then gives instant access to information assets and help to integrate, simplify and automate information processes to improve employee productivity, reduce operating costs and assist with compliance efforts.

- Autonomy TeleForm: eliminates time-consuming manual document sorting and data entry by automatically capturing, indexing and classifying information from paper and electronic documents using powerful recognition technologies to create accurate process-ready content in real-time.
- Autonomy Process Automation (APA): minimizes the risk of fines, reduces human errors and automates every day, manual tasks by speeding paper and electronic forms management for consistent, compliant and auditable processes.
- Autonomy WorkSite: reduces risk with version control, improves communication efficiencies, and makes documents and email accessible from virtually anywhere by allowing employees to seamlessly collaborate across any geography within the enterprise using any network- or web-connected device.
- Autonomy Intelligent Universal Search (IUS): delivers comprehensive, precise search results ordered by relevance that reaches across all databases of an enterprise as well as online, including documents, images, voice, video and other rich-media files.
- Autonomy Records Manager (ARM): reduces risk of noncompliance and increases security, data integrity, productivity and accountability for enterprise customers, providing a comprehensive records management solution.
