

Executive Biography

Rob Greer

Vice President and General Manager, Enterprise Security Products
TippingPoint
Hewlett-Packard Company

Rob Greer is vice president and general manager of the TippingPoint business within the HP Enterprise Security Products organization. In his role, he is responsible for leading TippingPoint product management, product development and support teams responsible for delivering network security products and services to enterprise customers.

Greer has more than 20 years of technology industry experience. He joins HP from Symantec where he led the company's enterprise mobility offerings. Through internal innovation, targeted acquisitions and strategic integrations, Greer drove significant business growth and development. Prior to his role with the enterprise mobility business, he ran the core security, endpoint management and data loss prevention (DLP) businesses.

Prior to Symantec, Greer was vice president of Worldwide Systems Engineering for SonicWALL. He joined SonicWALL through the company's acquisition of Ignyte Technology, a pioneer in managed security services, where he was founder and chief executive officer.

Greer holds a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with a concentration in Management Information Systems from San Jose State University.