

Executive Biography

Scott Weller

Vice President and General Manager, Technology Services Support
Hewlett-Packard Company

---

Scott Weller is vice president and general manager of the Support line of business, part of HP Technology Services. In this role, his focus is on growth and margin expansion while continuing to evolve the Support portfolio to deliver industry-leading experiences for customers and partners.

Weller formerly served as the vice president of Strategy for HP Technology Services, where he developed the global strategic vision and led key transformation initiatives to grow the business.

Weller has more than 25 years of product development and services experience with HP, as well as IBM, Xerox, Corning and the U.S. Department of Defense.

Weller received a Bachelor of Science in Physics from Houghton College and a Master of Science in Optics from the University of Rochester. He holds five patents and is a member of the HP Labs Software and Services Board.