

Executive Biography

Mike Armistead

Vice President and General Manager, Enterprise Security Products,
ArcSight, Hewlett-Packard

Mike Armistead is the vice president and general manager of HP Enterprise Security Products, ArcSight. In this role, he is responsible for driving the growth of ArcSight's software security business and managing all operational functions for the group.

Armistead is an industry veteran with more than two decades of industry leadership experience in the software security, application development and Internet arenas. He co-founded Fortify Software in 2003 and was a driving force behind the company's product, go-to-market, and strategic alliance strategies.

Prior to joining HP, Armistead held executive and key product development positions at companies that include Pure Atria (IBM Rational) and Lycos. While vice president and general manager at Lycos, he led development and data center teams in the financial, directory and web-based email services.

Armistead holds bachelor of science and master of science degrees in Management Science and Engineering from Stanford University.
