

SOFTWARE LICENSE TRANSFER PROCESS SHEET

Mercury, Peregrine, Systinet, Opware, SPI Dynamics, Dialogue, AFP, Output Server

HP requires a formal ownership transfer when there has been a change in ownership for the following used software licenses:

- HP3000, e3000 servers,
- HP9000, SuperDome, Integrity servers,
- EVAs
- Systems with OpenVMS VAX, OpenVMS-Alpha, or Tru64-Unix products
- Mercury, Peregrine, Systinet, Opware, SPI Dynamics, Dialogue, AFP (Exstream), Output Server products
- HP OpenView products on any platform.

No transfer is needed for:

- Storage devices (except EVAs),
- VA disk arrays,
- Switches,
- Jukeboxes,
- Desktop PCs, Vectras, Kayaks, Evo's
- NetServers,
- Proliants,
- Workstations,
- - unless any of the above are running an OpenView product.

The following products are not transferable:

- iCOD software
- XP disk array software
- Micro Focus software
- MicroCOBOL software
- Microsoft software

OpenVMS, OpenVMS-Alpha, and Tru64-Unix Contact Information

To begin a transfer for OpenVMS, OpenVMS-Alpha, or Tru64-Unix products, please start at the following web site: <http://www.hp.com/software/releases/releases-media2/slt/emea/relicense.html>

HP3000, HP9000, SuperDome, Integrity, EVA, and OpenView products

To begin a transfer for HP3000, HP9000, SuperDome, Integrity, EVA, and OpenView Products, please start at the following web site: <http://www.hp.com/software/releases/releases-media2/slt/emea/hpux.html>

For Mercury, Peregrine, Systinet, Opware, SPI Dynamics, Dialogue, AFP (Exstream), & Output Server Products, please follow the process below.

Note: Transfers of these products above are limited to mergers, acquisitions, and spin-offs only. For any other ownership change, please contact the SLT group directly.

There are five parts to a software right-to-use license transfer: the Request, License Ownership Confirmation, the Transfer Fee, the Software License Terms and the Transfer Authorization. Each of these five parts must be in place before HP will grant a right-to-use license.

[1] THE REQUEST – The current owner of the right-to-use licenses must send to HP’s Software License Transfer Group a written and signed request for the transfer. The easiest way to be sure to provide all the necessary information is to use HP’s Software License Transfer Request Form.

The current owner of the right-to-use licenses, the Transferor, must sign this form.

All the address, contact and phone number information is required for the Transferee and the Transferor. Please write clearly! The same person cannot represent, or sign on behalf of both parties to the transfer.

The person representing the Transferee cannot sign the Request Form.

This form may be faxed to the SLT Group at 353 (0) 91 701002.

[2] THE FEE - A cost recovery fee of €400 is charged per batch of Mercury, Peregrine, Systinet, Opware, SPI Dynamics, Dialogue, AFP, or Output Server transfers. We can accept cheques, money orders, wire transfers, Visa, Master Charge or American Express.

[3] THE LICENSE OWNERSHIP CONFIRMATION – Right-to-use licenses must have been purchased from Mercury, Peregrine, Systinet, Opware, SPI Dynamics, Exstream, or Dazel before they merged into Hewlett-Packard; or directly from HP or an HP Authorized Reseller; or HP must have previously approved the transfer of these licenses. HP’s SLT group will use your customer/license identification numbers to request a Full License Report that shows which licenses you hold and the quantities.

A: To confirm ownership of your licenses, we need at least one of the following:

- Your customer identification number with HP (eg. MPN#, SAID, etc.) as noted on the Transfer Request
- The order number from the purchase of the licenses
- The asset number of the licenses
- If previously transferred through the SLT process, a copy of an executed Software License Transfer Authorization – Exhibit F00
- If you are unsure of your customer identification number, you can send us any HP documents that may have your customer identification number and we will review them.

[4] THE SOFTWARE LICENSE TERMS – EXHIBIT E36S

The Buyer/Transferee must sign the Exhibit E36S - HP's Software License Terms including HP AS-IS document before HP will grant them a right-to-use license.

These terms are for used product and are different from the ones the customer may have signed for new product. These terms do not replace or over-ride any Master Agreement the customer may have.

The same person may NOT sign the Transfer Authorization form and the Terms forms. This applies even if the transfer is for a merger, acquisition, buy-out, or company split.

[5] THE TRANSFER AUTHORIZATION – Once HP's Software License Transfer Group has received BOTH the Request and the Proof, they will be used to draft the software specific Software License Transfer Authorization. The Authorization will be emailed or faxed to the seller/current owner/Transferor to review.

A representative of the seller/current owner/Transferor must sign the Authorization. Then the signed Authorization must be returned to HP. The transfer will not take place until the signed Authorization is received.

HP will execute the Authorization and send one original to the Transferee. The license transfer is not complete until the Transferee receives this document.

TRANSFERS will not take place until all five parts have been completed. The HP SLT Group is a facilitator of the transfer. The Current Owner/Seller/Transferor is responsible for contacting HP's Software License Transfer Group to initiate the transfer, and for the completion of all five parts of the transfer.

When the transfer is complete the SLT Group will send the new owner a Special Order Number and directions on how to request the licenses through the HP License Key Delivery Service website.
